

School of Medicine Faculty Development Series - 2021

Emotional Intelligence: Supporting the Development of Communication Skills and Professionalism

Sara Gleason, MD

Professor

School of Medicine – Psychiatry

Date: Wednesday, October 20, 2021

12:00 PM - 1:00 PM

Educational Objectives

At the conclusion of this activity, the learner should better be able to:

1. Differentiate emotional intelligence from a more general sense of compassion that leads medical students to enter the profession.
2. Recognize emotional intelligence as an ability-based skill that can be taught and correlated with specific competencies.
3. Apply emotional intelligence skills in common scenarios to prepare students for clinical

Location: Virtual

<https://umc.gl.rna1.blindsidenetworks.com/mis-0k3-qkr-baf>

Target audience: Physicians, Nurse practitioners, Nurses and other interested healthcare providers.

The speaker for today has no relevant relationships to disclose.

There are no fees for participating in this live activity.

AMA The University of Mississippi School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

As an organization accredited for continuing medical education, the University of Mississippi School Medicine designates this live activity for a maximum of 1.0 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit[™] toward the AMA Physician's Recognition Award.

Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.